Frederick Weyerhaeuser, Multimillionaire Lumberman, Dies at Pasadena.

Pasadena, Cal., April 4.-Frederick Weyerhaeuser, the multi-millionaire lumberman of St. Paul, Minn., died

Mr. Weyerhaeuser was seventy-nine years old. He was stricken ten days age with a severe cold.

Threatening symptoms developed, and several times he sank to the verge and several times he sank to the verge of death, but railied, and yesterday appeared all but recovered.

The funeral will take place at Rock Island, Ill., Mr. Weyerhaeuser's old home. The amount of his fortune is not known, but many persons have estimated it to be second only to that of John D. Rockefeller.

Imated it to be second only to that of John D. Rockefeller.
Frederick W. Weyerhaeuser was born in a village near Mainz, Germany, November 21, 1834. To emigrated to Eric, Pa., when he was eighteen years old. With a brother-in-law, he obtained control of a small sawmill at Rock Island, in the sixties, during boom times of the lumber industry along the Mississippi.

He got his financial start by apply-along the Mississippi.

He got his financial start by applying strictest economy to a business which at that time was being permitted to run on a profligate scale. Sometimes three and four profits were taken by cutters, loggers, steamboat men and others, before the timber roached the sawmill. In eliminating these middlemen, Weverlanders reached the sawmill. In eliminating these middlemen, Weyerhaeuser conceived the idea of the Mississippi Boom River and Logging Company, a combination of the biggest men in the lumber industry of the Middle West. He became president of the organization in 1871, and held the job for forty years. He acquired some of the largest and most valuable timber and mineral holdings in Northern Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, and entered the Pacific Coast field and the tered the Pacific Coast field and the Southern lumber field on a scale that made wealthy men gasp.

Pictures Bought for $500,000, to Go to Private Gallery.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

New York, April 4.—The famous paintings of Gustave Dore, which were one of the greatest art attractions at the World's Fair in Chicago more than twenty years ago, are to be exhibited again in this country. J. Stuart Burns, a representative of the Dore gallery in London, has been at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel for several days negotiating for the sale of the seventeen masterplees in the collection. Although Mr. Burns refused to discuss the matter, it was learned to-day that the sale had been practically consummated at a figure close to $500,000.

The pictures are to go to a private gallery, the identity of whose owner was not disclosed.

HARRIMANS AS MATCH MAKERS

Given Credit for Engagement of Miss
Wilson and Secretary McAdoo.
[Sjecial to The Times-Dispatch]
Washington, April 4.—Mr. and Mrs.
JJ. Borden Harrisan were the archmatchmakers for Miss Eleanor Wilson and Secretary McAdoo. Since the announcement of the Wilson-McAdoo engagement, Mr. and Mrs. Harriman have been constantly congratulated on the success of their plans. The methods used by these two first-aids to Cupid were gulet evenings, or music, with only Secretary McAdoo and Miss Wilson present, informal dinners and luncheons, and long rides.

The first invitation accepted by Secretary McAdoo and Miss Wilson as honor guests after the announcement of the engagement was to dine at the Harriman house.

Campaign Ended.

The campaign for new members of the Chamber of Commerce was ended this evening, with an addition of about 300 sto the roll of membership of that body—business and professional men who propose to take an active interest in the future work of the chamber in its plan to advertise and develop Petersburg. The enlarged revenue of the chamber will greatly enlarge its sphere of work, and more than double its power for benefiting the city.

Supposed Incendiary.

The department was called out this afternoon to a fire in the storage house in the rear of Kull & Co's store, on Old Street, the scene of a fire a few days ago. Little damage was caused. This fire is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary, as a negro was seen running from the premises just before the fire was discovered.

READY TO ORGANIZE

Bankers Hold Conference and Ask for Instructions.

Expresentatives of all of the national banks in Richmond and of the State banks and trust companies which have formally applied for registry under the new Federal reserve system, held a meeting yesterday at the Business Men's Club. The organization committee in Washington was requested to send instructions and proper forms that steps may be taken at once toward the organization of the regional bank designated for this district. It was expressed as the sense of the meeting that Richmond banks will do all in their power to carry out the purposes of the organization committee, and to effect the early establishment of the regional reserve bank for District No. 5.

A further meeting of representatives of all of the banks will be held next week, when definite information as to the proper pracedure to be taken will have been secured.
